First Generation

1. William Garlick. Died 1665<sup>235</sup>. Buried 14 May 1665<sup>235</sup> in Elland Churchyard, Elland, Yorkshire, Eng. Occupation Farmer, carpenter.

The name Garlick is derived from “Garlikker” and “Garlekmonger” or spicer. Garlicks were also called peppercorns.<sup>187</sup>

The very earliest Garlicks of the area appear in the Poll Tax of 1379 of the Pontefract/Rotherham district, southeast of Huddersfield:

Pontefract: Willelmus Garlekar, Chapman & Alicia ux ejus vjd

Villa de Roderham (Rotherham): Margaret Garlek iiijd

Villa de Tykhill (Tickhill - near Rotherham & Doncaster): Willelmus Garleker & Matilda ux ejus iiijd

Also, from the Lay Subsidies of 1545:

Normanton: Thomas Garlik in bon iij li iijd

(“in bon” means he was taxed on the good he had - not on the land.)

Extract from wills (York Probate Registry):

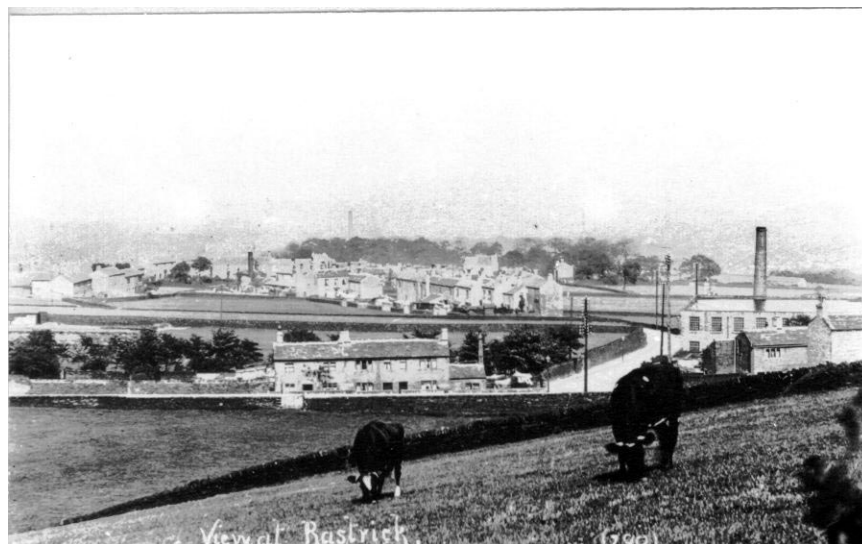

1. John Picard of Normanton 15 Jan 1501: ...also I gif to Jane Garlick vjs viijd and half a Qrt whete at the daie abovesaid (ie. the feast of St. Michael.)

2. Elizabeth Lwkes 12 March 1526-7: Widdow (buried at Alhalows Church, Normanton.) ...to Elizabeth Garleke my best petticoat. To Robert Harp wif my warst (worst) petticoat. Thies to witness ... Thomas Garleke.

William was the first Garlick to appear in the records in the Huddersfield district around 1660.<sup>235</sup>

It was quite unusual in these days for a man to have more than one occupation, but apparently William did: farming and carpentry. William is mentioned in the Churchwarden accounts for Elland Parish church:

“to William Garlick for wood & workmanship for a bell, the 17th of October — 12s 0d”

Early view of Rastrick, Yorks. Most of the fields shown are now built upon. The Liverpool-Hull motorway now slices through the field where the cows are grazing.

Garlick Descendants

The Garlicks attended church in Elland since the church at Rastrick had fallen into ruin. It was not rebuilt until 1798.<sup>235</sup>

William was also mentioned in the tax roles for the Hearth Tax, which was introduced by Charles II in 1662 and repealed during the reign of William and Mary:

“1665 William Garlicke 1 hearth”<sup>235</sup>

He married Martha. Died 1687<sup>235</sup> in Oaks Green, Rastrick, Yorkshire, England. Buried 14 Jan 1687<sup>235</sup> in Elland Churchyard, Elland, Yorkshire, Eng.

Martha is mentioned in the survey of stalls of the church at Elland on 27 June 1681:

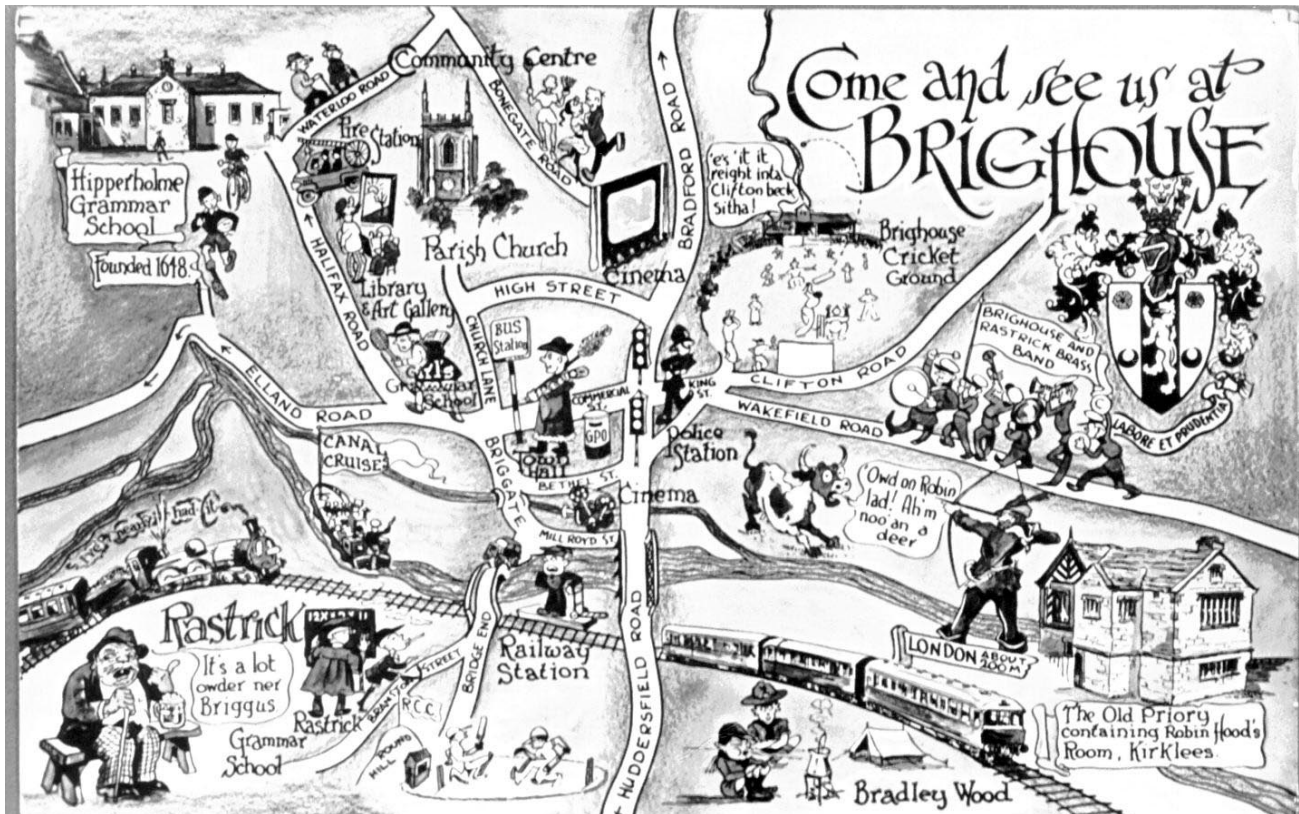

“From the back of St. John’s Quire to the doors of the South side. No 12: Boothroyde & Widow Garlick for Oaks Greene.

North side of St. Nicholas Quire. No’s 20 & 21: Widow Garlick of Oaks Green.”

Oaks Green is the district of Rastrick where Greenhead farm was located.<sup>235</sup>

They had the following children:

- 2        i.        William Garlick
- 3        ii.       Margaret Garlick
- 4        iii.       Ann Garlick
- 5        iv.        Hannah Garlick

17. John Garlick. Born 1793<sup>235</sup> in England. Died 11 Apr 1866<sup>235</sup> in England.

They lived at Greenhead Farm, Rastrick in Yorkshire, England. John left tenancy of the farm to his younger son, John, although it should have been left to William. The farm was sold at auction to the mill owners of the area around 1914-15. Many antiques, including pewter bedwarmers hanging on the fireplace and Elizabethan oak settles were sold. The farm had been rented from the Thornhill family by the Garlicks for over 400 years. Doris (Pilling) Stuart Moore remembers visiting the farm as a small child and being very impressed with the talking parrot there.<sup>176 218 320</sup> The buildings were torn down in the 1960's or 70's.<sup>235</sup>

Family legend has it that William was eldest but his father left the family farm to a younger son. William was so disappointed he turned to drink. One story passed down in the family tells that William was drunk and asleep on a sofa during the wedding reception of one of his children (Emma or Betsy Ann). When the minister said "To love and to cherish" he woke up and mumbled "To London for cherries."<sup>6 21 235</sup> William was reputed to have had a very well trained horse who would stop at all the pubs on the way to Bradford without being told.<sup>235</sup>

He married Ann Pitt (or Pitts), daughter of Thomas Pitts & Mercy, 16 Jul 1849<sup>235</sup> in Calverley, Bradford, West Yorkshire, England. Born 1829<sup>235</sup> in of Idyll, Yorkshire, England. Died 13 Oct 1895<sup>235</sup> in Rastrick, West Yorkshire, England. Occupation Dressmaker<sup>235</sup>. (See Family of Thomas and Mercy Pitts of Idle, Yorkshire, England for more information on Ann Pitts' family.)

Ann came from Idle, Yorkshire. Ann is supposed to have married beneath her station. After William died, Ann lived with her youngest daughter, Nellie, until her death.<sup>176 235</sup>

They had the following children:

- |    |      |                             |

26. Thomas Henry Gooden.

He married Annie Forster.

27. Sara Gooden. Occupation Dressmaker<sup>235</sup>.

28. Thomas Garlick. Born 2 Feb 1852<sup>235</sup> in Rastrick, Yorkshire, England. Died 30 Apr 1920<sup>235</sup>. Occupation Wire drawer.

He married Hannah Crossley.

Of Elland, Yorkshire, England.<sup>235</sup> Hannah Told a story about her father, who was a boat builder in Mirfield, about 6 miles from Elland Edge, where they lived. As was common in those days, he walked the six miles to work but on his return he used to call and have a pint of beer at an old coaching inn, "The Three Nuns" (which, incidentally, was about 1 mile from the reputed burial place of Robin Hood.) Arriving home one evening he sent the children to bed with the comment, "they would hear grave things in the morning." In fact he had met a party of Luddites on the march to wreck the new machinery which was being installed in the woollen mills. This was, of course, the time of the Industrial Revolution and work people were afraid for their jobs which heretofore had been purely manual.<sup>366</sup>

They had the following children:

Married twice. No children.<sup>176 235</sup> His sister-in-law, Hannah Garlick told her grandson, J. Kenneth Garlick, the following story about John:

He had driven cattle to Huddersfield market, about 4 miles. His route took him through a woodland dell with a stream at the bottom known as Ocre Hole ("Ocre Oil"). There was a tree trunk across the stream as a bridge. On his return from market with his bag of gold sovereigns, he was followed by a footpad. As he approached the bridge he walked slower and slower until the footpad was right behind him on the tree trunk. At this point in the story, Grandma would explode with the remark: "He Tu'nd rahnd and picked him in t' twater!"<sup>366</sup>

He first married Eliza Garside.

He second married Alice.
